[FOREWORD]
Toward the Internationalization of ELT in Japan—Reviewing the 4th Asian TEFL Conference

Yasukata Yano
Director of International Relations

The 4th Asia TEFL International Conference was held in Fukuoka, Japan on August 18-20, 2006 and it was a big success with 17 invited lectures, 400 presentations, and 900 participants from 50 countries and territories. The success owes much to Seinan Gakuin University which offered conference site and helping hands, JACET, and about 40 other supporting organizations, 50 some advisory board members, and about 60 hard-working conference committee members, all of whom are JACET members.

Asia TEFL is a young ELT professional organization, founded in 2002 by Prof. Hyo Woong Lee of Korea National Maritime University with the support of ELT leaders in Asia. It aims at bringing together ELT professionals in Asia to further develop ELT in the region through conferences, research projects, and journals. It also aims at contributing to peace and prosperity across Asia through cross-cultural understanding. It is a fast-growing organization and its membership has reached 7,000 from 35 Asian countries and 19 others in its 4th year.

The Conference invited six plenary speakers. Dr. Kenichi Uemura of Yokohama Stroke and Brain Center, Japan talked about the brain mechanism and English learning from the brain specialist's perspective. Prof. John Sinclair of the University of Birmingham argued that we can learn from giant collections of the language in use. Prof. Annie Hughes of York University (substitute reader) referred to the implications for teaching English to young learners. Prof. William Grabe of Northern Arizona University gave his expertise on L2 reading research. Prof. Alastair Pennycook of the University of Technology Sydney argued that ELT must be seen in relation to global practice of English use and learning from socio-cultural perspective. And Prof. Won Key Lee of Seoul National University of...
Education presented his idea for Common Asian Framework. All plenary speeches were inspiring and received well by the audience.

As featured speakers, we had seven well-known ELT professionals from Asian countries and they talked about the assigned topic—history of ELT in their respective countries. The speakers were Prof. Yeon Hee Choi of Ewha Womans University, Korea, Prof. Ravinder Gargesh of the University of Delhi, India, Prof. Ikuo Koike of Meikai University, Japan, Prof. Malachi E. Vethamani of the University Putra Malaysia, Malaysia, Prof. Phyllis G. Chew of Nanyang Technology University, Singapore, Prof. Arifa Rahman of Presidency University, Bangladesh, and Prof. Qiufang Wen of Beijing Foreign Studies University, China.

We also had four special lectures. Prof. Kimie Oshima of Bunkyo Gakuin University, Japan gave a talk on English Rakugo as a form of Japanese English. Prof. Rob Waring of Okayama Notre Dame Seishin University, Japan gave a lecture on the relationship between vocabulary and reading. Prof. Seamus Fagan of the University of Newcastle, Australia argued that Asian Englishes should be more valued in the classrooms of Asia. And Prof. Mamoru Morizumi of Obirin University, JACET President, Japan lectured on English Classology at the tertiary level of education.

We had 400 concurrent presentations of high quality and many of them were followed by lively questions and discussions.

That active interactions took place between the presenters and the floor attributed to the fact that two-thirds of the presenters and participants were from overseas.

Asia TEFL will be the biggest ELT organization in Asia, from Russia to Indonesia and from Israel to Japan. It soon will vie with TESOL in the US and IATEFL in Europe in the academic level and scope of activities. For the internationalization of JACET, closer affiliation of the two organizations will be desirable.

We live in the age of globalization, when not only people, capital, and commodity but also terrorism, environmental pollution, epidemic disease, and disaster occur and move across national boundaries. In order to react and interact to the global flow of these things and phenomena, we are compelled to deepen our interdependency and therefore organize the worldwide network of interdependence, namely 'global unionization.' Academia is no exception and we need to promote cooperation with fellow ELT professionals and applied linguists overseas.

What I would suggest is first to increase presentations in English in JACET annual conferences so that more ELT professionals and applied linguists participate from overseas. As we just witnessed at the Asia TEFL Conference in Fukuoka, the questions-and-answers period is much more lively in the international conferences than JACET counterpart. Second, JACET may plan to provide travel grants to young and promising scholars from less affluent areas in Asia. Third, JACET should encourage its members to engage in cooperative research with foreign colleagues. Kyushu-Okinawa Chapter is quite active in international cooperative activities, which should be commended. Despite his busy schedule, President Morizumi complied with requests for lectures and went to Beijing in 2005 and Fukuoka this year for Asia TEFL and to Taipei in 2005 for ETA-ROC. I hope all JACET members follow suit and help JACET's internationalization.
Report from JACET Headquarters
Hajime Terauchi, Secretary General

I would like to extend special thanks to those who were involved in preparing and conducting the 45th Annual Convention of JACET held at Kansai Gaidai University in Osaka in September. Certain the success of this Conference will help lead us to the next step regarding the future of English language teaching and learning not only in Japan but also in the world.

As you know, on April 1st, 2006 the Kanto Chapter of JACET was formally established. JACET now consists of seven regional chapters: Hokkaido, Tohoku, Kanto, Chubu, Kansai, Chugoku-Shikoku, and Kyushu-Okinawa.

The JACET Headquarters consists of two types of committees—ten main committees and ad hoc committees. The main committees include the General Affairs, Finance, Annual Convention, JACET Bulletin, JACET Newsletter, Seminar, Networking, International, JACET-SIGs Support, and JACET Prize Committees. The ad hoc committees are Organizational Structure, Privatization Preparations, General Survey on English Language Teaching in Japan, Examination Research and Development, and English Classology Research (jugyogaku in Japanese) Committees.

In the near future, JACET will be transformed into the “JACET Association” (shadan-houjin in Japanese). The JACET Headquarters is now preparing the shift from the present voluntary JACET corporation to this future public association. The final results of the shift will be announced in the spring of 2007.
